

PROJECT GRANT

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

The Company is a London-based environmental finance platform that enables businesses and governments to transform sustainability initiatives into verified environmental attributes. Through its Originate platform, the Company offers a encompassing feasibility assessment, business case development, and credit issuance, ensuring projects align with international standards and deliver measurable impact. The Company's software platform provides a transparent marketplace for trading these attributes, catering to corporate, retail, and Web3 participants. By integrating advanced technologies like satellite monitoring and smart contracts, the Company streamlines the creation, verification, and monetization of environmental assets, including those related to carbon, plastics, and biodiversity.
